Confidentiality & Submission Notice

Effective: September 15, 2026

Vatra welcomes introductions from founders, investors, operators, and partners. This notice is designed to prevent misunderstandings about confidentiality, especially when a company or opportunity is submitted through the website.

1. Do Not Send Confidential Information Without an NDA

Please do not send trade secrets, highly sensitive technical information, source code, non-public personal data, privileged material, or other information you consider confidential through the website or an unsolicited email unless Solten Ventures LLC has signed a separate written confidentiality agreement that expressly covers the information.

2. Unsolicited Submissions Are Non-Confidential

Unless a separate written confidentiality agreement states otherwise, information submitted to Vatra or Solten Ventures LLC is received on a non-confidential basis. No confidentiality obligation is created merely because material is labeled “confidential,” because a pitch deck contains a confidentiality legend, or because information is submitted through a website form.

3. Independent Review and Similar Opportunities

Vatra, Solten Ventures LLC, their affiliates, clients, partners, or future investment vehicles may already know of, research, evaluate, advise on, or become involved with companies, technologies, markets, or opportunities that are similar to or competitive with a submitted company or idea.

Receipt of a submission does not restrict independent research, evaluation, business activity, or investment activity, subject to any separate written agreement and applicable law.

4. What to Send Initially

For an initial introduction, provide only information appropriate for non-confidential review, such as a public or non-confidential overview of the company, product, market, team, traction, and financing context. If a discussion progresses and confidential diligence is appropriate, the parties can determine whether a separate agreement is necessary.

5. No Commitment to Review, Respond, or Invest

A submission does not create an obligation to review materials, respond, meet, provide feedback, perform diligence, invest, or enter into any transaction. Any investment activity would require separate evaluation, legal documentation, and an appropriate investment vehicle.

6. Intellectual Property

You retain ownership of intellectual property you submit. By sending non-confidential materials, you authorize Vatra and Solten Ventures LLC to receive, internally review, copy as reasonably necessary for review, and discuss the materials with personnel and professional advisers involved in evaluating the submission, subject to applicable law.

7. Personal Information

Personal information included in submissions is handled in accordance with the Vatra Privacy Policy.
